

Gerald Smerdon

Living in Postbridge.

What is it about the village that you enjoy?

I don't know, its just something about Postbridge, once you've lived here you wouldn't want to live anywhere else, its very unique I think.

In what way?

I don't know, its peace and quiet and everyone gets on well together, and the pantomime and all that stuff, everyone gets together and helps out, and there's the church and that, you know, its quite a nice friendly place to live.

And interestingly you said it's a nice peaceful place to live, having said, previously, you have ten coaches of tourists every day.

Well yes, but can soon get away from it, you've only got to walk two minutes and you're away from it all, aren't you?
